$13 billion outlay eyed

State budget nearly ready

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators have approved the two-year state appropriations bill in a race to get it to the governor before the start of the new fiscal biennium July 1.

However, changes made by the Senate in the nearly $13 billion spending document sent it back to the House on Tuesday where a joint conference committee to work out differences was called a certainty. The House votes today on the amendments.

The Senate vote on the bill was 27-6, with six of the chamber's 12 Republicans breaking leadership ranks to support it.

Sen. Paul Pfeifer, R-26 Bucyrus, and other GOP lawmakers said generally that while they don't agree with some Democratic priorities, they do endorse the concept of spending within existing state revenues and not increasing taxes.

In separate action, the House approved 56-31, along strict party lines with Democrats prevailing, another component of the Democratic leadership's four-bill budget package.

It appropriates $1.54 billion for the highway safety and transportation departments. Rounding out the package are a legislative intent bill—passed by the Senate and pending in a House committee—and a capital improvements plan costing about $642 million.

The capital improvements plan is not a part of the package being rushed to meet the fiscal deadline, but is considered an important element in the state spending plan. It is awaiting its first hearing in the House Finance Committee.

The appropriations bill and other parts of the package, if finally enacted, would boost overall state spending for the 1977-1979 biennium to a record $15.1 billion, compared to about $12.2 billion this biennium.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshe, D-33 Youngstown, who presented the bill on the Senate floor, called the debate "the tamest since I have been here, because there is so much in it that is agreeable to almost everyone involved."

The key part of the bill is proposed spending from the state's general revenue fund, the receptacle for Ohioans' state tax dollars. It increases from $7.2 billion in the current biennium to $8.8 billion in the two-year period starting July 1.

Drafters distributed the increase of approximately 18 per cent in tax revenues across the board to education, welfare and other state services—with some getting hikes of 25 per cent or more and many others a budget increase of at least 10 per cent.

According to the Legislative Budget Office analysis of the bill, primary and secondary education receives $2.85 billion, for an increase of 29.3 per cent; higher education $1.27 billion, for a 14.4 per cent hike, and welfare, $2.71 billion, for a boost of 30.8 per cent. These three items account for about 75 per cent of the state's general fund appropriations.

Senate amendments to the House version included the addition of about $103 million in spending, but only after the finance committee found some revenue sources it said had been overlooked in the lower chamber.

The bulk of the Senate additions—$58.2 million—went for basic education aid ($52 million), special education for handicapped pupils ($6.2 million), along with $30 million to boost welfare payments an average of about $12 a month.

Some of the other smaller additions by the Senate amounted to "pork barrel" for Democratic senators, charged Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, as the GOP amendments were being defeated.

Aronoff, who voted against the measure, also accused Democrats of using "tricks and gimmicks" in the budget to restrict the veto powers of GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Asserting that the budget represents "a school of tricks, some of them pretty cute," the Cincinnati lawmaker predicted some of the actions would be declared unconstitutional in the courts.

Among other things, Democratic drafters deleted subdivision totals from several departmental budgets, precluding Rhodes from using his line

WCH top contender for new factory

Shoe firm begins local labor survey

A shoe manufacturing firm has reportedly narrowed the future site of a new factory to three communities and Washington C.H. is a leading contender.

A labor survey is presently being conducted by the firm which is taking measures to remain anonymous until the survey has been completed.

A labor survey form will appear in Thursday's edition of the Record-Herald. Prospective employees are asked to complete the form and mail it to the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce.

George A. Malek, executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, said he did not know the name of the firm, but all survey forms would be submitted to the shoe company through the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

The manufacturer of women's leather and vinyl footwear is searching for area residents with at least two years experience in a shoe plant or related industry.

Former employees of the Jackson Glove Manufacturing Co., and Hagerty Shoe Co., and the former American Pad and Textile Co. would do well to fill out the survey forms, according to Malek. All three companies closed area factories in recent years. The first two companies mentioned had plants in Washington C.H.; the other was located in Greenfield.

The only other area factory which could lend suitably experienced employees to the proposed shoe factory is the U.S. Shoe Corporation located in Greenfield. This plant is still in operation.

The skills needed by the manufacturer include cutting, fitting, stitching, lasting, and prefitting leather or vinyl products.

If the plant locates in Washington C.H., it will reportedly employ between 200 and 400 persons.

The shoe manufacturing firm hopes to get enough qualified persons from the Washington C.H. area to open a plant. Then, it hopes to attract other experienced employees to the area or to train area residents in efforts to supplement the plant's needed work force.

If Washington C.H. is chosen as the site for the factory, it will likely be located in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park.

Officials of the shoe manufacturing firm are reportedly considering a 10-acre tract of land in the industrial park.

A total of 15 industries are presently located in the city's industrial park which began development approximately 10 years ago with the construction of a Kenskill Industries (Redman) plant. The 15 manufacturing firms now employ more than 1,000 persons.

There are between 30 and 40 acres of undeveloped land presently located in the industrial park. Much of the developed land was initiated by the Community Improvement Corporation.

It is not known how soon after the labor survey is completed that the shoe manufacturer will decide where to locate the plant. However, Glenn R. Hemsworth, past president of the local Chamber of Commerce, stated last week that "We expect to have a new tenant in the industrial park within the next six months."

Hemsworth also mentioned that Washington C.H. was being considered as a possible site by two other industrial firms.

Proposed ordinance on tonight's agenda

Council may consider new sewer bill penalty plan

An ordinance devising a new penalty plan for delinquent sewer bill payments is scheduled for consideration at tonight's Washington C.H. City Council meeting.

The ordinance would amend a 1975 city ordinance and would set stiffer penalties for Washington C.H. residents who neglect to pay monthly sewer bills.

"There is a current penalty, but it is too low," City Manager George H. Shapter said. He added that over $40,000 in delinquent sewer bills are owed to the city.

Shapter said the proposed ordinance is one solution in curbing the non-payment of sewer bills. He noted that City Council members have not discussed the proposed ordinance and he is uncertain if the members will act on the proposal at tonight's meeting.

The present penalty for non-payment of sewer bills calls for a 10 per cent charge on all unpaid bills.

The proposed penalty structure contained in the new ordinance would levy a 10 per cent fine on all sewer charges that are not paid within 30 days of the billing date.

For all bills delinquent after 30 days the following penalty schedule would apply under the proposed ordinance:

Bills delinquent from 31 to 90 days would be assessed a 25 per cent delinquent charge. Bills delinquent from 91 to 120 days would be assessed a 50 per cent delinquent charge. Bills unpaid from 121 to 270 days would be assessed a 75 per cent delinquent charge. Bills unpaid for over 271 days (nine months) would be assessed a 100 per cent delinquent charge.

In all instances, the percentage penalties would include previous assessed penalties.

The proposed ordinance would also establish a committee consisting of the chairman of Council's finance committee, the vice-chairman of City Council, and the city solicitor to receive and consider appeals on delinquent sewer bills. The committee would have authority to adjust any delinquent bill based on unusual circumstances.

SIX OTHER items of legislation including three other new ordinances appear on council's agenda. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Carnegie Public Library.

Two of the new ordinances deal with new city employee pay plans. Both ordinances appeared on Council's agenda at a meeting earlier this month, but no action was taken.

One ordinance would establish rates and salary ranges for city employees assigning pay levels for positions. The other ordinance concerns salaries of city administrators such as the city manager, the street superintendent, etc.

When the first salary ordinance was brought up at the last meeting, Council members apparently did not agree with its contents. An executive session, closed to the public, was held after the meeting, but differences were obviously not ironed out and no action was taken.

Some kind of action is expected at tonight's meeting.

The other new item of legislation concerns supplemental appropriations for current city expenses incurred during this year.

Two items of legislation are scheduled to be placed on second readings at tonight's meeting. One ordinance concerns the rezoning of a tract of land on S. Elm Street from residential to multi-housing. The other would annex 23 acres of land, owned by Frank and Janet Sollars, from the county to the city.

House vote curbs state patrol

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $1.54 billion budget for the departments of transportation and highway safety has cleared the House, despite Republican warnings that it will hamstring the Ohio Highway Patrol.

The bill, considered separately from the state's $13 billion overall appropriations act, was sent to the Senate Tuesday where some GOP objections are expected to be remedied.

State senators called for a vote today on a bill that, if enacted, will almost certainly require extra dollars for the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, an arm of the Highway safety department.

It would change Ohio's two-month license plate and validation sticker registration period to a 12-month staggered system and allow motorists to register their vehicles by mail for an added fee.

The budget controversy in the House revolved around a decision by majority Democrats to trim $7.2 million from Gov. James A. Rhodes request for highway safety. The transportation section of the bill, largely highway and gasoline tax money, was accepted by both sides.

But some Democrats oppose Gov. James A. Rhodes use of state troopers to investigate non-highway matters, such as charges of criminal violations at mental institutions and fraudulent payment of worker's compensation payments.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, in an informal ruling, said highway safety money may not be used for these investigations and the House subsequently refused to provide general revenue funds.

"Do you want state police, or do you want a highway patrol," asked Rep.

George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, who clearly wants the latter. "The trend has been to create a state police."

But Rep. Waldo Bennet Rose, R-64 Lima, said the restraint on the patrol would "endanger people in local communities" by limiting the state's ability to deal with prison riots or other criminal activities on state property.

"Without general revenue fund money, the highway patrol cannot set foot on our penal institutions," he said.

At the same time, Rep. Robert A. Taft 11, R-65 Cincinnati, said a tight Bureau of Motor Vehicles budget would eliminate the state's computer hookup with local law enforcement agencies.

Public hearing held on zoning proposal in Madison Township

There is apparently no opposition to a rural zoning proposal for Madison Township land.

Only four persons appeared at Tuesday night's public hearing on the rural zoning question which was conducted by the Fayette County Board of Zoning Appeals.

According to Madison Township trustee Taylor Groff, no one was on hand voicing opposition to the plan.

The proposal calls for the zoning of Madison Township land under the Fayette County rural zoning plan. Areas that are presently used for commercial purposes will be zoned commercial and areas presently residential will be zoned residential.

Approximately 95 per cent of Madison Township land is used for agricultural purposes and no land is zoned for industrial purposes under the zoning plan.

Currently, the township has no zoning plan.

After the Fayette County Board of Zoning Appeals held the hearing and approved the zoning plan, Wednesday night, the Fayette County Planning Commission met and approved the plan.

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners will now hold a public hearing on the zoning proposal. The date of the hearing is expected to be announced at Monday's commissioners' meeting.

If the commissioners approve the plan and certify the proposal with the county election board, the zoning question will appear on the November ballot general election.

Haldeman surrenders early

Mitchell begins prison sentence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The "Big Enchilada," John N. Mitchell, has an appointment today to surrender as a prisoner of the federal corrections system he once ran as attorney general. He is the 25th man to be sent to jail for Watergate crimes and probably the last.

Mitchell waited until the last minute today to begin his 2½ to 8 year sentence for his part in the Watergate cover-up, unlike H.R. Haldeman, who showed up a day early carrying his belongings in a half-full grocery bag.

Their imprisonment — Mitchell at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama and Haldeman at Lumpoc in California — effectively closes the book on the Watergate scandal that began with a botched burglary five years and five days ago.

Entering the minimum security institution at Lumpoc on Tuesday, Haldeman made a brief statement:

"There's only one thing I do want to say and that is to express my great appreciation for the expressions of support I've received from so many people around the country and most especially to express my gratitude to my family for their love, their courage and their understanding."

Inside, Haldeman was photographed, fingerprinted and dressed in a gray uniform before being shown to his new home — a six-by-eight foot cubicle in a dormitory that houses 30 men.

As the new prisoners were being indoctrinated into prison routine, the last of the men convicted in the 1972 break-in at Democratic party headquarters near release through the intervention of President Carter. When G. Gordon Liddy is freed, only the three men convicted in the cover-up aftermath — Mitchell, Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman — will be in prison.

Their crime, as determined by a jury that convicted them after three months of trial, was conspiracy to obstruct justice, obstruction of justice, and multiple counts of lying under oath.

Mitchell, 63, was law partner, friend, adviser and manager of Richard M. Nixon's two successful presidential campaigns. Haldeman, 50, was chief of staff, the no-nonsense autocrat with the power to decide who could see the president and who could not.

Together with Ehrlichman, the domestic adviser, they were the iron men of the Nixon administration, the friends he could count on to do his bidding without question.

AMA kills laetrile proposal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The AMA has knocked down the recommendation of one of its committees that it advocate nonprescription sales of Laetrile.

"If (the public) perceives we have lowered our standards, then you may open the floodgates to quackery," said one doctor.

On Tuesday, the AMA committee backed nonprescription sales of Laetrile, the purported cancer cure made from apricot pits. The AMA has stated it believes the substance is worthless.

"We thought we were taking away the profit motive from the people who sell Laetrile," said Dr. Alfred Faber, the committee chairman.

But after 40 minutes of debate, the AMA's 249-member House of Delegates defeated the measure by acclamation, on the grounds that such a tactic would neither discourage Laetrile use nor free doctors from being involved with the substance.

"The danger would be that the public would then understand that we had somehow lowered our standards on Laetrile," which could lead to quackery, argued Dr. Jack Schreiber of Ohio, adding that the misunderstanding would be fostered by "the lay press" and "headline writers."

Justice department overhaul set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell is considering abolishing most or all of the Justice Department agencies that pass out federal crime-fighting money, investigate narcotics traffic and control immigration.

Bell wants to merge some of the essential work of these agencies into the department, transfer other functions elsewhere in government and do away with some jobs he considers unnecessary.

The attorney general discussed his reorganization plans in an interview with The Associated Press. Most of the steps he is considering would require legislation, and Bell said he has made no final decisions about the proposals he will send to Congress.

On other issues, the attorney general said:

—By Sept. 1, he will announce the first guidelines defining acceptable conditions in federal and state prisons and jails. It might take more federal money for states to improve their prisons.

—He thinks the FBI should have clear legislative authority to spy on domestic terrorist organizations when there is probable cause to believe they are about to commit a crime.

—In interviewing the five candidates for FBI director, he will look for a man strong enough to control the dominant personalities in the FBI hierarchy.

Discussing the reorganization plans, Bell said he wants to trim the department down to its "traditional mission" of investigating and prosecuting crime, representing the government in civil lawsuits and rendering legal opinions for the government.

Those functions are carried out by the department's legal divisions and by the FBI. But over the years, the department has acquired a variety of related agencies.

They include the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which distributes federal crime-fighting money to state and local governments; the Drug Enforcement Administration, which investigates illegal drug trafficking, and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, which screens aliens seeking admission to the United States and tries to apprehend those entering illegally.

Suggesting that LEAA may be the first to get the ax, Bell said it is his "general thinking" that most of the agency should be abolished.

He said he is inclined to favor a system in which federal money would be dispensed to state and local governments through a special revenue-sharing program administered by the Treasury Department.

This would mean state and local governments would no longer have to submit detailed crime-fighting plans to get the federal money.

Bell on Monday received an FBI report discussing the ramifications of merging the drug agency into the FBI. The merger would mean abolishing the DEA as it is now constituted.

Bell mentioned no specific reorganization proposals for the immigration service but said he doubts that many of its duties belong in the Justice Department.

said, harvesting should hit its stride next week.

The brightest development the dry weather brings is an apparent short season for allergy sufferers.

According to one local allergist, the lack of rain has discouraged the growth of molds and the lush vegetation of weeds which cause allergy sufferers to walk around sniffing and red-eyed.

Hot, dry summer arrives for Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
What promises to be a long, dry summer officially began shortly after 8 a.m. Tuesday as the sun arrived from its six-month journey across the southern hemisphere.

The National Weather Service is predicting warm temperatures above-normal for Ohio the remainder of June and into mid-July. Service spokesmen said Ohio has "mild to moderate drought potential."

Rainfall has been below normal since March, with only 3½ inches of rain officially recorded this month.

"Last year was the year," said Homer Carter of the state Crop Reporting Service. He said the previous year's record corn yield of 101 bushels per acre will be a tough one to beat.

One reason, he said, is planting had to be put off until late May because of a 10-day cold spell toward the end of the month.

Ohio has received only half of the rainfall needed to insure a good corn harvest this fall, Carter said, adding that time will tell, since crops recently planted have not yet reached the stage where rain is critical to a successful harvest.

On the sunny side, the hot, dry weather has hurried the maturity of wheat, which turned recently from green to golden. Nearly five per cent is ready to harvest.

Carter said the wheat yield should hit 64 million bushels—a good harvest but two per cent below last year's.

Ohio farmers expect to combine wheat by the end of this week, and, he

Filipino stewards cater to Mondale

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Walter F. Mondale comes home after a hard day of being vice president, he has six Filipino stewards supplied by the Navy waiting to serve him.

An aide to the vice president says the Mondales "don't have any choice." The stewards "are simply assigned there by the Navy."

This military decision costs $75,000 a year, according to a Navy spokesman.

The six stewards work in the Admiral's House, the Victorian home that now serves as the official residence for the vice president.

Located on the grounds of the Naval Observatory on a hill overlooking sloping lawns and trees, the house is set well back from Massachusetts Avenue at the northern end of the fashionable Embassy Row.

It formerly was the residence for the chief of Naval operations.

The six stewards assigned to the vice president cook and serve meals, shop and keep the house clean, from the basement to the circular room in the turret.

The Mondale aide said the assistance of the Navy stewards is needed to run the mansion because it is considerably larger than the home from which the family moved.

"There's no way they could run the house," said the aide, noting that it has a basement kitchen similar to one found in a restaurant.

A woman who cleaned the family's old home once a week before Mondale became vice president still works for the family, visiting the new home once a week to do the laundry and ironing.

Before Mondale became vice president, he and his wife and their three children lived several blocks

Daytime sedatives change to nights

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you take a daytime sedative to help you keep your cool, don't get uptight about the government crackdown on the non-prescription tranquilizers. They'll probably still be available, but with a label that says they now are nighttime sedatives.

FDA Commissioner Don Kennedy announced Tuesday that he plans to ban all non-prescription daytime sedatives because they cause dangerous drowsiness.

"Users of these products run the risk of being drowsy during the day when they may be operating automobiles or other dangerous machines and need to be alert," Kennedy said in explaining the decision. "Given this risk in the absence of any demonstrated medical benefit, there seems to be no justification for the continued marketing of these products."

But an FDA spokesman said shoppers will be able to buy the same products as long as they are not labeled "daytime" sedatives and not promoted as calmatives or medicine to relax daytime nervous tension.

The major daytime sedatives include Cope, Compoz, Miles Nervine, Tranquium and Quiet World.

Consumers, of course, could use the newly labeled nighttime sleep aids during the day — just as they have before.

State budget

item veto to disallow individual spending items so that department heads could keep the funds involved to use at their discretion. In other words, Rhodes would have to veto an entire department outlay to reject one individual item.

Meshele conceded the device was put into the bill to keep Rhodes from letting his directors spend funds in ways not intended by the legislature. "We are perfecting legislative intent to the ultimate," he said.

The so-called legislative "intent" bill, fought by Republicans last week when approved by the Senate, also makes "illegal intrusions" into managerial functions of the executive branch, they claim.

To hike the House version of the main budget bill by more than $100 million, Senate Democrats utilized $43 million more in revenues they said will be realized from a new scheme for collections of the state income tax.

Under the plan, now a part of the bill, employers would have to turn employee deductions over to the state within three days after a fiscal quarter, instead of the 30 days now allowed. This was described as a one-time pickup of revenues.

In addition, the Senate said the House overlooked about $30 million in federal "anticreosion" funds available to Ohio, and it reduced by about $30 million an estimated $95 million the House put aside as a surplus to help deal with Ohio's cash flow problems.

"We're not removing the ingredients," explained FDA spokesman Wayne Pines. "We're removing the claim from the labels."

Pines said that under current FDA thinking the brand names of the daytime sedative could still be used if they are labeled sleep aids. But he emphasized that another decision on the brand names of the products could be made later.

The daytime sedatives market is about $7 million a year and firms that make the drugs are expected to change their labels to keep their products on the market.

Producers of Compoz already are gearing up advertising that moves away from promotion of daytime use and talks instead of "a simple medication formulated for those occasional nights when simple nervous tension keeps you tossing and turning, unable to fall asleep."

The FDA will publish a tentative regulation outlawing the labeled daytime sedatives and ultimately plans to remove them from the market in the middle of next year.

Daytime sedatives contain anti-anxiety and the FDA commissioner said evidence shows that anti-anxiety has no distinct anti-anxiety effect other than a tendency to cause drowsiness.

Karen Quinlan hovers near death after two-year coma

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP) — Karen Anne Quinlan, whose two-year coma sparked nationwide debate over the right to die, is hovering closer to death 13 months after her life-supporting respirator was turned off under a court order.

Her parents, Joseph and Julia Quinlan, today kept vigil at her bedside at the Morris View Nursing Home.

The family priest, the Rev. Thomas Traopasa, said he administered the Roman Catholic last rites to Miss Quinlan Tuesday night, something he said he had done periodically during her illness.

"Karen is experiencing difficulties," Paul Armstrong, the family's spokesman and attorney, said Tuesday. But he refused to comment on reports that death was imminent. "We don't want the world to be at the bed-

He said he did it because she is an only child and the last in her line of descendants.

The new Mr. Owens also transposed his first and middle names because he uses initials a lot in his training. "If I had left it Barry Owens, the initials would have been B.O., and I didn't care for that," he said.

Stocks take slight loss

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was narrowly lower today after showing strong advances for the past two days.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up more than 8 points since Monday, was down about a point shortly after the opening.

Losing issues outnumbered gainers by only a small fraction among stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors might be moving in for profit taking after fairly strong advances in the past two days and a broad upward trend for more than 10 sessions.

Crude oil fell 1/4 to 6, was the volume leader in early trading. Other early prices included General Motors down 1/4 to 69 1/2; General Electric off 1/4 at 56 and U.S. Steel down 1/4 to 40 1/4.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average gained 4.33 to 928.60. Losers outnumbered gainers by about 3-to-2 in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume reached 29.73 million shares, against 22.95 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index gained 19 to 55.09.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .43 at 117.86.

And Rep. Robert W. Jaskulski, D-11 Gardfield Heights, said 147 troopers were tied up for 13 days each summer for security purposes at the Ohio State Fair at a cost of $500,000, including considerable overtime. Twenty-seven patrolmen are used as parking lot attendants at the fairgrounds, Jaskulski said.

As approved, the bill containing the total highway safety appropriation was $156.8 million, an 11.7 per cent increase over present spending.

The transportation budget in the same bill, described favorably by Rose as the "result of bipartisan hard work," totaled $1.38 billion, including $950 million for construction and maintenance of highways.

House Finance Chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, the sponsor, said "all planned operations and projected construction projects have been fully funded, according to the Department of Transportation."

"I was the last to hold out," Joseph Quinlan, 52, said of the decision. "But after a lot of prayers I became convinced this is what God's will was, and that Karen was being called by Him."

Man takes bride's maiden name

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Barry Alan Beaver, a 21-year-old male nursing student, married Ellen Owens in a civil ceremony Tuesday and took his bride's name.

He said he did it because she is an only child and the last in her line of descendants.

The new Mr. Owens also transposed his first and middle names because he uses initials a lot in his training. "If I had left it Barry Owens, the initials would have been B.O., and I didn't care for that," he said.

Opinion And Comment

Big job, whopping cost

The interstate highway system is a colossal undertaking which has been under way for a couple of decades. Yet for all its magnitude and scope, this plan to criss-cross the nation with a 42,500-mile highway network gets relatively little attention from the public that benefits by it.

Benefits by it — and is paying dearly for it! This aspect of the matter was brought sharply to mind the other day when Transportation Secretary Brock Adams submitted a progress report to Congress.

The relationship between original estimates and actual and project costs is jarring. The total bill for the network was figured at $37.5 billion in the beginning. Adams now says it will cost $40.6 billion just to complete the remaining 4,200 miles. That will be on top of the $63.7 billion already spent.

No one can say when the project will be completed; some even wonder if it should be, given the waning of gasoline supplies. Probably it will be, though — in 1987, maybe 2000. We're doubtless too far down the highways road, so to speak, to quit now. But as the fellow said before the auction: Bring money!

THESE DAYS....By John Chamberlain

Policy to make enemies happy

Who makes our foreign policy, anyway? And what does it consist of, besides a bowl of Jello, once that it is made?

Jimmy Carter provides the grand circus top when he speaks of standing up everywhere for human rights. Now, to any objective observer with an eye to dictionary definitions, human rights are practically nonexistent in the Communist and Communist satellite countries, Cuba included. There are the in-between nations, such as Argentina, Brazil and Chile, where at least an effort is made to secure the rights of a majority by cracking down on Soviet, Maoist and Peronist plotters. There is Rhodesia, where blacks can vote if they have property qualifications. And there is South Africa, where tribal freedom is promised as the homeland concept is extended.

It is not a pretty picture anywhere but the Carter Administration responds by cozying up to the worst cases. A Panamanian Committee for Human Rights smuggles out a list of dozens of instances in which individuals have been tortured by the dictatorial Omar Torrijos government, yet we persist in carrying on negotiations that will, unless the U.S. Senate intervenes, turn total ownership and control of the canal over to Panama by Dec. 31, 1999.

Meanwhile, dictator Torrijos lets Fidel Castro's Cubans help run his National Guard, the G-2, or intelligence department, especially, Jamaica, whose Prime Minister Michael Manley admires Castro and follows the economics of spoliation of the middle classes that was the trademark of Chile's Salvador Allende, is being run into the ground, with 30 per cent unemployment and a limping tourist trade. Yet Jimmy Carter's wife Rosalynn praises Manley's experiment in democracy where the efforts of Chile and Brazil to get investment going elicit nary a pat on the back.

As for Cuba, the more that Fidel Castro spreads himself in Africa, the more conciliatory we become in our dealings with him. Castro goes into Ethiopia, and we exchange diplomatic representatives below the ambassadorial rank with Havana. We resume relations with the People's Republic of the Congo, where 1,000 Cuban troops help keep the joint stabilized. If Fidel were to take over in Zaïre and Rhodesia tomorrow, presumably we would send George McGovern himself to Havana as our full-fledged ambassador.

When Andy Young goes to Africa in his traveling extension of his UN ambassadorial job, he fraternizes with the most bloody-minded guerrillas that he can find. He ignores Bishop Muzorewa of Rhodesia because that moderate black, who would probably win an open election, believes in peaceful change. Meanwhile we make it financially impossible for Rhodesia to keep an information service open in Washington, even though the beleaguered country's Ian Smith has promised to establish majority rule within two years.

If Jimmy Carter's blueprint for Asia follows the outlines of his Caribbean and African policies, we will shortly be sending large bundles of cash to North Vietnam. Cambodia is probably the worst case in the world when it comes to the recognition of human rights, but if the White House has even tut-tutted the Cambodian Marxists for murdering an eighth of their country's population it has escaped attention. Luckily, Castro hasn't the troops to spare for Asiatic adventure. If he could wangle a couple of divisions, we may be sure that he would be offering to feed them into North Korea as the U. S. Second Infantry Division is withdrawn from its South Korean billets over a five-year period.

When it comes to Israel, it is impossible to discern what is in Jimmy Carter's mind. He has promised the Israelis a proper concern for "defensible borders." But he had also made favorable mention of a Palestinian homeland under the control of Jordan. Since the crossings of the Jordan River are a key to "defensible borders," Jimmy's statements, if they are not actually contradictory, at least do not provide any clue to what Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will be telling Begin's new Israeli government.

Of one thing we may be sure. Jimmy Carter isn't consulting ex-Undersecretary of State Eugene Rostow's Committee on the Present Danger when it comes to Middle and Far East policies. Yet the committee speaks for a large Democratic Party middle group as well as for nonisolationist Republicans and independents.

Jimmy Carter promised to talk things over with America before committing himself to foreign policy decisions. He has hardly done that.

Medical profession disciplining self

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four times as many medical and osteopathic physicians in Ohio underwent state disciplinary action last year as did five years ago, and the number has tripled nationwide.

In 1976, 36 doctors were penalized by the Ohio State Medical Board—27 more than in 1971. Likewise, the numbers nationally have jumped from 1,275 in 1971 to 4,236 in 1976.

The Ohio State Board has not revoked a medical license since 1971, but last year 16 physicians voluntarily surrendered their licenses to practice and three others gave up narcotics permits after undergoing investigation by the board.

Nationwide, 130 licenses were revoked in 1976, compared to only 45 in 1971, according to a national survey by the American Medical Association.

In response to that survey, Dr. James H. Sammons, outgoing president of the AMA, issued a report on the crackdown of alcoholic, mentally ill or drug-addicted physicians nationwide at a meeting of the AMA's House of Delegates Monday in San Francisco.

Sammons said no one knows how many physicians are alcoholics or drug addicts. But he estimated the number at 17,000 of the nation's 400,000 doctors.

Medical associations in 25 states, including Ohio, have initiated their own checks on incompetence among physicians, and have started programs to treat physicians suffering from alcoholism, drug addiction or mental illness.

Doctors who turn in fellow doctors may account for some increase in the reporting of such instances, according to Robert Clinger, associate executive director of the Ohio State Medical Association.

Clinger said doctors are encouraged to report cases of gross negligence, incompetence or possible malpractice among colleagues.

"Enforcement is the last option," Clinger said. He said the medical association hopes to solve the matter internally, and only requests the aid of the state medical board when the situation requires a legal investigation.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She's second to CB and calling '10-33'

DEAR ABBY: Whoever invented the CB radio sure invented a road monster. My husband, a once law-abiding citizen, now gets into his car, turns on his CB and starts looking around for other CB antennas. He then identifies the color and make of the car and asks if they have their "ears" on.

Next he gets a "front door man" and a "back door man" so he can excess the speed limit without getting caught by a "Smoke" or "bubble gum machine" (police).

Meanwhile, everybody else with a CB is speeding, looking for road buddies and driving with one hand on the wheel and the other holding a speaker. By the time we've reached our destination I'm exhausted.

We just returned from one of those "fun" weekends, and I am ready for a straitjacket. Four hours over and four hours back with breakers 1 to 9, and that's it for me.

Before my husband got a CB we enjoyed a leisurely drive listening to soothing FM music. No more!

Next time I'll stay home. My handle? STEAMED BEAVER

DEAR BEAVER: Don't sell the CB'ers short. When you need help on the road you might have a long wait before a Tijuana Taxie (sheriff) or Smokey (police) happen by, but those guys in the 18 wheelers (Big trucks and trailers) are great in a 10-33 (emergency) situation.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a debate between my gentleman friend and me.

I just turned 28, at which time Jim informed me that I am now an "old maid."

Jim's definition of an old maid is any women who is 28 and single, regardless of whether she has been previously married.

My definition of an old maid is a women who is 30 and has never been married.

Which of us comes closer to your definition?

I am a divorcee, so even though I am unmarried at age 28, I do not consider myself an old maid.

Answer in the paper. The loser owes the winner a dinner.

DEAR LINDA: Jim owes you a dinner. (P.S. The term "old maid" went out with the buttonhook. I prefer "unclaimed jewel.")

DEAR ABBY: You said that most handwritten do-it-yourself wills aren't worth the paper they're written on.

As a lawyer I must inform you that this is probably true in many instances, but a will that is written, dated and signed in the hand of the testator can be written on toilet paper, and it's as valid as one drawn up by an attorney. Furthermore, in California a holograph (hand-written will) is simpler to execute because no witnesses are required.

CALIFORNIA LAWYER

DEAR LAWYER: Judging from my mail, a lot of lawyers read my column. I still say in matters having to do with law, it's cheaper and wiser in the long run to seek advice from a lawyer.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

"WHAT WAS IT WE MOVED TO THE SUBURBS TO GET AWAY FROM? DO YOU RECALL?"

Small streams offer opportunity for power

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A contract was awarded this month to begin redevelopment of a small hydro plant on the Passaic River at Paterson, N.J. that was abandoned after a flood in 1968.

At the time it was decided that to spend $120,000 on repairs would be uneconomical, especially since electricity could be provided by a modern, powerful central generating plant.

When work is completed, Paterson, a city trying to recapture the energy that made it an industrial center even before the 19th century, will have an installation of perhaps 4,500 kilowatts, tiny by modern standards, but significant.

As one of those involved in the project stated, "It's enough to keep an industry from leaving town."

Author of the comment was David Lilienthal, who in the past has subscribed to the engineering concept that big is beautiful and efficient, and who seemed to apply that view — he might argue with you — as head of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Lilienthal, whose company, Development and Resources Corp., is planning the Paterson comeback, now believes the nation has gone too far toward the belief that power generation should be centralized, and with it the people who need that power.

Small hydropower now appears competitive, in the Northeast anyway, both in terms of unit investment costs and operation-maintenance costs. There is no shortage of sites; there appears to many, many thousands of them.

The tumbling waters of New England streams, which turned the gears of factories since colonial days, are perhaps the most abundant sources. But reservoirs, locks, navigational dams, even irrigation canals, offer opportunities everywhere.

Municipalities, factory owners, utilities and federal officials now are showing interest in sites long abandoned, left behind by the alleged march of progress.

The Federal Power Commission survey of potential sites almost ignores those of less than 5,000 kilowatts, or enough roughly to serve a city of 5,000. But recently President Carter asked for, and soon will receive, a report on such possibilities.

An investigation by the Mitre Corp. confirmed the economic feasibility of restoring a 300 kilowatt hydroplant at Wareham, Mass. At Harrisville, on the Nubanusit River in New Hampshire, a manufacturer is restoring a 180 kilowatt site.

Lilienthal, who also served as the first chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, believes the potential of other sites is obvious, providing we have adapted to the realization that power need not be centralized. Sites of as little as 500 kilowatts, and sometimes even less, might be feasible, he says.

He has on his desk a report that 25 small dams in Minnesota have been withdrawn by the Northern States Power Co. in the past 20 or 30 years.

A particularly fine example, he feels, is the Coon Rapids Dam at Brooklyn Park, on the Mississippi near Minneapolis. The power equipment was removed in 1966 and the dam transferred to the Hennepin County Park Reserve District.

If restored, that same facility might provide 6,500 kilowatts, or about $1.35 million a year in power. Most likely it would not interfere with recreational facilities. Most likely it would not offend conservationists.

Lilienthal's company has designed large-scale, integrated, agricultural-industrial-human redevelopment projects around the world, but in recent months his contagious enthusiasm has been directed at small power.

Since he first spoke out on the subject a year or so ago he has been deluged with inquiries. "I am not used to pioneer ideas being accepted quickly. This comes as close as any," he commented.

Among other virtues, small power returns power to the people, he feels. It permits them to decentralize and to retain local autonomy. Big power helped bring centralization, he says, but now "decentralization is a worldwide feeling."

Appeals court eyes pollution battle

CINCINNATI (AP) — A federal appeals court is pondering whether the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has the power to stop the Ford Motor Co. from dumping wastes into Lake Erie after the State of Michigan gave the firm permission.

"Dilution is not the solution to pollution," argued Patrick Molloy, an EPA lawyer.

Ford lawyers argued that an EPA veto of Ford's permit from the state coerced the state to back down, preventing Ford from proving the worth of its plan and denying the automaker its right to challenge EPA in court.

A three-judge panel in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals took the case under advisement after questioning EPA's right to veto state acts.

Both sides reported that Ford and Michigan officials are currently reviewing the situation and near agreement on a new plan.

Ford originally won approval of a plan to increase its dumping of metals from its Monroe, Mich., bumper plating plant, south of Detroit, into the Raisin River, which runs into Lake Erie. The plan calls for the plant to pump thousands of gallons of water out of the lake, dilute the effluent and then release it into the river and eventually the lake.

The EPA, according to Molloy, vetoed the plan because the company would be ultimately dumping larger amounts of zinc, copper, chromium and nickel into Lake Erie "contrary to the government's treaty with Canada." He said both nations pledged to stop pollution of the international waterway.

Molloy said it was the first time the EPA had vetoed a Michigan permit because the agency reviews only "major" pollution permits.

Molloy said the EPA demands that Ford install equipment which will remove the metals before dumping.

Edward Dunkelberger, Ford attorney, argued that Ford would actually reduce the rate of metal discharges and conform to federal standards for the Raisin River. He contended the EPA acted arbitrarily and in violation of the intent of Congress in the Water Pollution Control Act.

"They do not have the authority," Dunkelberger said.

Molloy said the case should be dismissed since Ford and Michigan are now involved in another approach.

Carter inks boycott bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is signing compromise legislation which limits but does not end the involvement of U.S. corporations in the Arab boycott of Israel.

Carter scheduled a Rose Garden ceremony today at the White House to place his signature on the bill, the product of an unprecedented agreement between the nation's most influential Jewish groups and the chief executives of many U.S. companies.

The President set aside time for the ceremony after a breakfast meeting with members of the House Ways and Means Committee, whom he is trying to persuade to approve his energy tax proposals, and a farewell session with former South Carolina governor John West, his new ambassador to Saudi Arabia.

The limits on corporate involvement in the Arab boycott were included in an extension of the 1969 Export Administration Act. Under terms of the compromise, approved by the Jewish groups and members of the Business Roundtable, American companies:

—Are permitted to comply with local import laws and customs in foreign countries under certain circumstances.

—Are liable for substantial fines for otherwise refusing to do business with firms blacklisted by the Arabs or using a boycott to discriminate against other U.S. firms on the basis of race, religion, color, sex or national origin.

Guard gets state honor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert R. "Andy" Anderson, a cigar chomping guard at the Ohio Statehouse for a quarter century, had never been inside the Senate chamber—before Tuesday.

Sensors had him escorted there to receive a congratulatory resolution for his service to them on the 25th anniversary of his employment.

Anderson watches the Senate parking lot.

He regards as significant that in all those years he "never lost a car," although as one senator put it, "there have been a few fender benders that weren't Andy's fault."

Anderson's wife and family were included in the ceremonies during which the resolution, sponsored by Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, thanked him for keeping the Senate parking lot "completely free from theft."

Marshall unveils black portraits

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall was in the Maryland state capital to unveil portraits of himself and two noted black Marylanders of the past.

While here Tuesday, Marshall assessed the progress of blacks in America and concluded "we have not yet reached the point where we can sit down and look back."

Even in 1977, said the first and only black U.S. Supreme Court justice, there is no place in the country "where I have to put my hand up in front of my face to know that I'm a Negro."

The portraits of Marshall; Benjamin Banneker, a self-educated scientist who helped lay out the District of Columbia; and Frederick Douglass, a slave who became a publisher and diplomat, will hang in a new museum of black history and culture at the Old Mt. Moriah Church in Annapolis.

The First Baptist Church was the June 4 setting for the marriage of Miss Vicki June Leeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oyer, 678 Robinson Rd., and Stony Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Howe, Reynolds Rd.

The Rev. Ralph Welford and the Rev. Wayne Knisley officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Wedding music was presented.

Given in marriage by Mr. Oyer, the bride wore a long formal wedding gown of polyester crepe with French lace at the waistline, down the front of the skirt and at the hem.

The neckline was also edged in lace and the bodice, had capelet sleeves. Her veil of French illusion had Alencon lace and she wore a heart-shaped diamond necklace, a gift from the groom. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses, blue carnations, white stephanotis and baby's breath with blue and white streamers.

the bride, and carried a colonial bouquet.

The bride's mother chose a copen blue dress, floor-length, with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a long pale blue dress with white chiffon sleeves. Each wore a silver necklace, gifts from the bride.

George Allen served as best man, and Colin Leeth, and Bill Howe Jr., brothers of the couple, seated the wedding guests.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Hidy with the theme "Father". Reports were given by Martha Stamer. The class decided to have the community calendar another year to make money and as a service to the community.

Rev. Harold Messmer gave a report on his week at the Methodist Conference at Lakeside.

The next meeting will be a picnic in August with the date and place to be decided later.

Members of the Jeffersonville Stitch and Chat Club and their guests enjoyed a noon luncheon at the Staunton Fellowship Hall. A social hour preceded the luncheon with orange sherbet punch.

Places were found at tables attractively set with floral arrangements and favors. Following the meal, all assembled in the reception room for the business meeting.

Mrs. Joe Ferguson welcomed the group and read "The Best Part of Summer," after twenty-four members responded to roll call. Mrs. William Allen read the minutes of the May meeting and Mrs. Otis Thompson gave the financial report. Mrs. Harold Cline was in charge of the lovely party.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Carl Meriweather with a reading. Mrs. Charles Pensyl's devotions were taken from the Book of Ephesians with some thoughts pertaining to morality, refusal to worry and what one should do about it by fighting with faith, courage and strength with prayer. She also gave quotes from Emerson and other poetry.

Each responded to roll call by showing something from their what-not shelf, which proved interesting. Twelve members and one guest, Lydia Hale, from Clearwater, Fla., were present.

Cumulative and the April and May minutes were read. Pictures taken at the 50th anniversary celebration were on display for all to see, and order.

It was voted to pay half of the tuition for a child to attend camp for one week. The next scheduled meeting will be in September with Mrs. Elizabeth Hall and Mrs. Mary Stackhouse as hostesses.

On the July 4 celebration, the Jaycettes will work at the concession stand at the Fairgrounds.

Members agreed not to hold a meeting in July and August, but will resume in September. The budget for the coming year will be submitted at the September meeting.

Continued KSU death suit

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals must decide between two widely divergent arguments in determining any liability on the part of the governor and the National Guard in the 1970 shooting deaths of four students at Kent State University.

"I have never seen a case where the briefs of the two parties are so far apart," commented Judge George Edwards during Tuesday's hour-long hearing. "You'd almost think there were two different happenings, on two different days, in two different places."

Attorneys for the relatives of those who were killed or wounded said that there had been a "holiday atmosphere" by students who gathered on the campus on May 4, 1970, prior to the confrontation with National Guard troops.

Sanford Rosen argued that the events of the three days preceeding the event should not be enough to issue an absolute ban against demonstrations.

He also claimed there was no evidence to justify the use of force employed by the National Guard.

Group fights KSU gym construction

CINCINNATI (AP) — The families of students killed or wounded in the May 4, 1970 shootings at Kent State University are publicly backing current efforts to stop construction of a gym near the site of the confrontation.

Albert Canfora of Barberton, Ohio, speaking for the 13 families Tuesday, vowed to do "anything necessary" to preserve the site for history and as evidence for continuing litigation.

Student demonstrators have been living in about 40 tents on the site where Ohio National Guard troops opened fire on the anti-Vietnam war protesters since the seventh anniversary of the shootings last month.

The families rallied in a hotel Tuesday following an appearance in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, demanding that the site be "preserved permanently for both legal and historical value."

The families were here for the opening of oral arguments in their appeal of a 1975 U.S. District Court jury verdict absolving the governor of Ohio, the university president and the head of the Ohio National Guard of liability in the shootings.

"It is sacred ground. We want to keep it as a monument," said Floyd Stamps, South Euclid, Ohio, whose son Robert was one of nine wounded in the incident. Four were killed.

"I believe the site was chosen for a purpose and it is one of the worst possible sites anyway," said Stamps.

"There are plenty of better sites for it."

Welfare fraud suspects listed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The names of nine persons suspected of welfare fraud have been turned over to the Stark County Prosecutor by state Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson as part of a statewide investigation begun last December.

Approximately $16,448 in welfare funds has been misused in Stark County, which is the 87th of 88 Ohio counties investigated by computer cross-checking, Ferguson said.

Statewide, 304 persons in 28 counties are suspected of illegally receiving $884,319 in welfare payments.

The nine suspects were narrowed down from a list of 148 names that were found by computers to be both a contributor to the state retirement fund and a recipient of Aid to Dependent Children.

Bluffton officials pay hike illegal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The $5,125 in raises given three officials of the Village of Bluffton in Allen County during their terms must be repaid to the village treasury, the state auditor has said.

The mayor, a clerk and the late treasurer all received raises while in office, which violates an Ohio law forbidding salaries of any elected officer to be increased or diminished during the term of office.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Korty, the Emmy-winning director of CBS' "Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman," does things a bit differently. For starters, his office is near San Francisco, not in Hollywood.

And in a boom era for half-hour situation comedies, with 27 set for next fall on the networks, a sitcom idea of his called "The Transport of Delight" may wind up on public TV in several years.

It's being pitched by station KQED in San Francisco to officials at the Corporation for Public Broadcasting as a candidate for partial underwriting for a pilot show that could lead to a series, KQED says.

"Transport" is about young folks of differing races who form a moving and trucking company, and advertise in foreign-language and underground newspapers, a station spokeswoman says.

"Well, I guess it's because I'm a little crazy," Korty said when asked why he didn't take his wares to NBC, CBS or ABC. "I had the idea for three years ... but I didn't want to do a commercial series."

He said he only wanted to do 13 episodes a year. But if his series was on a network and clicked, he feared the network would demand the usual 24 or so episodes annually, leaving him no time for other projects.

His comedy idea sat idle until an old friend, Chloe Aaron, a Public Broadcasting Service program executive, mentioned a need for comedy on public TV, "so I decided to try it," he said.

Should CPB tell "Transport" to start trucking, he says, he won't take it to Hollywood. He'll tape the series on location around the City by the Bay, avoid the conventional studio and audience therein.

"And I want to use, as much as possible, Bay-area writers, actors and directors," he added in a phone interview from his office in Mill Valley, just north of San Francisco.

"There are a lot of good people up here who find it very hard to crack the Hollywood scene. And yet they're very talented and know what they're doing."

Korty, 40, a transplanted New Yorker born in Lafayette, Ind., is among the small, but growing, colony of San Francisco film folk who've cracked the Hollywood scene with spectacular success.

Others who call the Bay area home include Francis Coppola of "Godfather" fame; George Lucas, director-writer of the hit "Star Wars," and Lee Mendelson, who makes those "Charlie Brown" specials for TV.

Korty says he never wanted to live in Hollywood — a state of mind extending from Dreamland to the Cuckoo's Nest — even though it's said to survive here you must constantly see and be seen here.

The director-writer says he doesn't hate Hollywood, just prefers life in San Francisco. He once even "had one agent give up on me because he said I was never around" in Hollywood.

"I find now there's a kind of reverse prestige," he mused. "I've heard people saying, for a specific project, 'Well, maybe we would get a San Francisco actor.'"

KNOT-TYING LESSON — These four Cub Scouts learned to tie knots at the Cub Scout adventure day camp held recently at Deer Creek State Park.

At Deer Creek

Day camp attracts over 125 scouters

Over 125 Cub Scouts participated in this year's adventure day camp held recently at Deer Creek State Park. Cub Scouts from Fayette, Pickaway and Madison counties attended the three-day camp. The popularity of the day camp is growing tremendously each year and this year's camp was the largest ever held in the three-county area.

The program at the camp was filled with activities such as archery, nature study, first aid training, knot tying, field sports, tent pitching, fishing and swimming. Each of the Cub Scouts attending had the opportunity to participate in each one of the skill areas during camp.

Special presentations and demonstrations were staged by guests. Ray

Taylor of the Soil Conservation Service demonstrated methods Cub Scouts could use to conserve soil and water resources in the Deer Creek State Park area. A film and presentation by Basil Green, a project supervisor for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Deer Creek, on the park's waste treatment system was held. Several members of a senior Girl Scout troop specializing in first aid and rescue operations also presented demonstrations.

The remainder of the camp staff consisted of older scouts and adult leaders who volunteered their services.

"Several of the staff members even took time off from their jobs to help out. That's real scouting spirit," said camp director Pat Higgins.

The Cub Scouts and leaders held a cookout on the final night of the camp. The Cubs were divided into tribes and each tribe selected an Indian tribe name. The tribes held all activities together.

"There were lots of skits and songs put on by the Cub Scouts," Higgins said. "Some tribes even made up their own cheers. One enterprising tribe gave their own version of a rain dance but they failed to bring any rain. The weather remained beautiful all three days," he said.

Cub Scout's at this year's camp represented 12 different packs in the three-county area.

Higgins expressed his appreciation to the volunteer staff members. "Without their help and enthusiasm this camp would have never taken place. Everyone pitched in and did their share. That's what Cub Scouting is all about; family involvement. I just can't thank them enough," he added.

Work begins on growth project

LEESBURG — Construction is under way on a cable addition for growth and service improvement in the Leesburg exchange, the General Telephone Co. of Ohio announced today.

Thomas R. O'Neil of Wilmington, customer service manager, said the $15,800 project will beef up facilities in the northwestern portion of the exchange.

Portions of the new cable will replace existing facilities for maintenance reasons. Where possible the new cable will be buried.

The Leesburg exchange serves 808 customers in a 56.4-square-mile area of Clinton, Highland and Fayette counties.

Gas leak checked

Washington C.H. firemen investigated a gas leak at 220 S. Fayette St. about 8:09 p.m. Tuesday.

Ruth Burlile, who rents the two-story home, called the fire department. The firemen found gas leaking from the line to the water heater. They shut off the gas until the leak is repaired. No damage was reported.

Municipal Court

An Octa man was found guilty of assault Tuesday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court by Judge John P. Case.

Thirty-year-old Jerry Neal Davis was arrested Tuesday morning by Fayette County sheriff's deputies in connection with a June 18 incident at Kelley's Tavern in Milledgeville.

A man had entered Arnett Kelley's bar about 8:50 p.m. on June 18 and ordered a six-pack of beer. When Mrs. Kelley refused to serve him, according to a Fayette County Sheriff's deputies, the man struck Kelley several times and left.

Davis, arraigned Tuesday, waived a trial by jury. Judge Case found him guilty as charged, fined him $50 and costs and sentenced him to 10 days in the Fayette County jail. Judge Case suspended the jail term pending one-year good behavior and upon the condition that Davis "does not enter into, upon or about said liquor premises for one year."

In another trial by court Tuesday Judge Case found Charlotte Montoya, 849 Potomac Circle, guilty of aggravated menacing.

Montoya was arrested May 28 by Fayette County sheriff's deputies on a private warrant filed by Minnie Goolsby, of Sabina.

The local woman was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail, which was suspended provided she does not enter or go near any liquor permit premises for one year.

Committee eyes plans for alcoholics program

A proposal for establishing a program to treat acute alcoholics at Fayette County Memorial Hospital was discussed at the quarterly meeting of the Fayette County Alcohol Advisory Committee Tuesday.

Robert L. Kunz, administrator of Fayette County Memorial Hospital and a member of the alcohol advisory committee, said the establishment of such a program here is contingent upon the amount of federal funds available in July.

Currently, persons with drinking problems are admitted to the hospital for treatment under orders from private physicians. Others are sent to rehabilitation centers in the Columbus area.

The county alcohol advisory committee hopes to establish a program here with a three-bed ward in Fayette County Memorial Hospital for local alcoholics.

The establishment of the program to treat acute alcoholics is one of the committee's priorities for the year. Others include a walk-in meeting place for alcoholics, a driving while intoxicated program in cooperation with Washington C.H. Municipal Court, employment of treated alcoholics in local industries, and establishment of alcohol prevention programs in the community and schools.

In other matters, the committee discussed a three-day driving while intoxicated school to be held at the Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus near Wilmington. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case is studying the proposal for the school which would be held on a monthly basis.

An alcohol education committee report was presented by Mrs. Blance Johnson, George Malek and Paul Crosby, and a continuing education program to be held in August at Ohio Dominican College for teachers, counselors and administrators was also discussed.

Ohio's beer industry began in Cincinnati in 1806 when James Dover advertised for hops to be delivered to his brewery.—AP

New officers of the Washington C.H. Lions Club were installed at the organization's regular semi-monthly dinner meeting Tuesday night in the Country Club.

George W. (Bud) Naylor, 321 East St., was installed as the club's president, succeeding Jesse Persinger.

Persinger, 6365 Ford Road, who guided the Lions Club during a record-breaking year for the amount of money spent on service projects, will serve a one-year term on the club's board of directors as immediate past president.

Naylor, owner and operator of the Colonial Paint Co. store, 143 N. Main St., had served as the club's first vice president during the past year.

Other new officers installed were James Polk, first vice president; Wiley

Witherspoon, second vice president; Ben Roby, third vice president; Patrick J. Riley, secretary; A.D. (Pete) Whiting, assistant secretary; Allen Willoughby treasurer; Lynn Shoemaker, assistant treasurer; Sam Kimpel, tail twister, and Rick Stinson and Mike Flynn, two-year directors.

Holdover directors are Chester Dean and Joseph White.

The installing officer was Fred Blocker, of Chillicothe, a past district governor. Blocker, a former member of the Washington C.H. Lions Club, was assisted in the installation duties by zone chairman Richard Coates.

Persinger expressed his appreciation to the various committee members, the project chairman, the club's board of directors and the general membership of the club for their service during the record-shattering year.

The past president was presented with a handsome digital clock radio from the club's board of directors for his service during the past year.

In other matters, the club heard a report on the upcoming international convention to be held in New Orleans La. The local club will be sending five delegates to the convention.

The Lions Club has started preparations for the harness race program sale during the Fayette County Fair in July. The Lions will also be attending a game between the Cincinnati Reds and New York Mets August 24 at Riverfront Stadium.

Birch Rice was a guest at the meeting with Richard R. Willis.

'Ah, Wilderness' set for debut

Sabina Barn Theatre opens Friday

SABINA, Ohio — The Sabina Barn Theatre will open its third season with Eugene O'Neil's "Ah, Wilderness" on Friday, June 24. The play will continue Saturday, June 25, July 1 and July 2.

A humorous look at American family life shortly after the turn of the century, "Ah, Wilderness" unfolds a tale of rebellious adolescence and the trials of young love in a small Connecticut town. Set of July 4, 1906, the play portrays the efforts of the town's kindly and aging newspaper editor, Mr. Miller, as he steers his teenage son Richard through the troubled years of his youth.

While the story is primarily concerned with the gentle poignancy of the father, played by Tom Downard, in his relationship with his son, played by Scott Dillon, "Ah, Wilderness" also presents a touching romance between the boy's maiden aunt, to be played by Lucinda Sigrist, and her lover, to be played by Jeff Wittman.

Others in the cast will be Ellen Turkelson (Essie) as the callow hero's mother, Cindi Skunza (Mildred) as his sister, John Ebner (Arthur) and Mike Shoaf (Tommy) as his brothers, and Karen Rouse (Muriel) as the neighborhood girl he is smitten with.

Randy Adams is directing this "comedy of recollection," which Brooks Atkinson described in the New York Times on the occasion of its being revived in 1953 as an "enchanting play."

SEASON OPENER SET — Jeffrey Wittman will portray Sid and Lucinda Sigrist will be Lily in Eugene O'Neil's "Ah, Wilderness" which opens Friday at the Sabina Barn Theatre.

Ike's letters to Mamie published

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dwight Eisenhower never planned to divorce his wife, Mamie, and at one point told her not to worry "your pretty head" over rumors that he was having an affair with his secretary, their wartime correspondence shows.

The letters from the former president to his wife were released to the Los Angeles Times by the Eisenhower family in reaction to an ABC television screenplay being produced in part from a book by Lt. Kay Summersby, "Past Forgetting: My Love Affair with Dwight D. Eisenhower."

The screenplay is to be aired in several months, the Times said today.

Lt. Summersby, a member of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, was Eisenhower's driver and secretary in Europe and North Africa during World War II.

She wrote her book about the alleged affair in 1976 and died of cancer shortly afterward.

The Times reported, however, that the Eisenhower letters cast doubt on the accuracy of the Summersby book and on a story, attributed to former President Harry Truman, that the general planned to divorce his wife and marry Kay Summersby.

Truman's account of the alleged divorce plans were printed in a recent book by Merle Miller, "Plain Speaking: An Oral History of Harry S. Truman."

In his letters, Eisenhower repeatedly refers to his wife as "My Darling" and "my sweetheart."

"This eve I just wanted to say you're the greatest gal in the world. I'll never be in love with anyone but you," the general wrote to his wife from Algiers on Feb. 20, 1943.

Five days later, he wrote again from Algiers: "I love you — don't go bothering your pretty head about WACS, etc., etc."

The 319 Eisenhower letters are scheduled to be published next year by Doubleday under the title, "Letters to Mamie."

In a preface to that book, the couple's son, Brig. Gen. John S.D. Eisenhower of Valley Forge, Pa., writes:

"The allegation in Merle Miller's 'Plain Speaking' that Gen. Eisenhower wrote a somehow 'lost' letter to Gen. (George C.) Marshall (the Army chief of staff) telling of intentions to divorce his wife is exposed by these letters, to my mind at least, to be the egregious falsehood that it was. There is no evidence that divorce ever seriously crossed Dad's mind, even in the loneliest moments across the Atlantic."

The decision to make the Eisenhower's wartime letters available to the Times was made by John Eisenhower as executor of his father's estate, with approval of other family members, the newspaper said.

Mamie Eisenhower, 80, now lives on the family farm in Gettysburg, Pa. She was distressed by the upcoming screenplay based on Lt. Summersby's book, the Times said.

New Israeli chief faces stiff fight

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Labor party retained control of Israel's powerful Histadrut labor federation today and vowed to fight conservative Prime Minister Menahem Begin's capitalist policies with strikes and the federation's considerable economic muscle.

Projections based on a third of the votes cast Tuesday in the federation's election of delegates to its ruling convention indicated Labor supporters would win 52 per cent of the 1,501 seats, supporters of Begin's Likud bloc would get 30 per cent, the new Democratic Movement for Change would get 7-8 per cent and the rest would be divided among three small parties.

Labor's predicted percentage was a drop of more than six percentage points from its showing in the Histadrut's 1973 election, and the Likud's was seven percentage points higher. The switch was not sufficient to give the conservatives control, but it was another warning — after Labor's recent general election defeat — of growing defection among those who were the hard core of its support during its 29 years in power.

One expert on Israel wrote that an American equivalent to the Histadrut would be a merger of the AFL-CIO, the Chase Manhattan Bank, General Motors and AT&T.

The federation's 1.4 million members include 90 per cent of Israel's salaried workers, and it controls more than a quarter of the country's economy through the "workers' companies" it owns. Among these are the country's largest insurance company, its second largest bank and its largest steel mill.

More than a third of Israel's 3.4 million people live in homes built by the Histadrut's housing company.

Australian leader meets with Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser is meeting with President Carter and other senior administration officials for talks expected to touch on efforts to restrain the spread of nuclear weapons. Fraser, a key backer of Carter administration efforts to slow the weapons spread, arrived here Tuesday night on a two-day official visit. He was scheduled to hold a breakfast session today with Defense Secretary Harold Brown before meeting with Carter's top energy adviser, James R. Schlesinger, and then the President. Normal protocol calls for the first meeting of a foreign head of government to be with the President, but scheduling difficulties prompted Fraser to arrange his talks at the White House after the earlier meetings. Fraser leads a country which has some 20 per cent of the non-communist world's known uranium supply.

American officials say they are pleased at Fraser's insistence on maximum safeguards should his country become a major uranium exporter. Carter and Fraser are said to be virtually in complete agreement on both the opportunities and the dangers inherent in nuclear power development. The Carter policy acknowledges the need for an expansion of nuclear power facilities provided there are adequate protections against diversion of spent fuels to nuclear weapons production. Fraser's visit here coincides with the opening of talks in Moscow on an issue of major importance to Australia, Carter's proposal for the complete demilitarization of the Indian Ocean. The Fraser government has been concerned about Soviet military activities in that area and has supported U.S. expansion of naval facilities on Diego Garcia Island.

House committee rejects meditation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With one legislator citing the Bill of Rights as a guidepost, a House committee has rejected a bill that would have required a moment of silence in public schools for prayer or meditation.
Rep. James S. Zehner, D-63 Yellow Springs, said Tuesday night when the U.S. Constitution proclaimed "Congress shall make no law, I think they meant no law." Zehner referred to the First Amendment barring any law "respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."
The freshman lawmaker said the bill before the committee implied "that the state has legal entry into sacred and private areas of a person's mind."
Zehner said the measure took on the "specter of fingerprinting" and could run afoul of the principle of separation of church and state.

The House Education Committee subsequently voted 8-4 not to favorably recommend the bill's passage. It had suffered a damaging setback prior to Zehner's remarks when the sponsor, Rep. Dale Locker, D-80 Anna, withdrew support due to the addition of a key amendment.
Ironically, the amendment, offered by committee Chairman Robert J. Boggs, D-97 Jefferson, was intended to save the measure.
Instead of requiring teachers to "provide a period of silence not to exceed one minute" for prayer or meditation at the beginning of a school day, Boggs wanted to put the onus on local school boards.

Jackie Gleason has face lifted

MIAMI (AP) — Jackie Gleason's doctor says the rotund comedian has had his face lifted because his "eyelids drooped so he couldn't read the scripts."
"The operations weren't cosmetic; they were more reconstructive," said Dr. Bernard Halperin. "He needed the operation for his career."
He said Gleason underwent two plastic surgery operations over a 4½-hour period Tuesday at Jackson Memorial Hospital. The comedian was said to be in good condition, but full recuperation could take months.

Billy Carter finally wins post

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Billy Carter, whose older brother has demonstrated a certain political knack, has finally been elected to office.
But there was little speculation about the birth of a political dynasty as the two-time loser for mayor of Plains presided over a meeting of the newly formed Plains Merchants Association on Tuesday night.
"This is the first time I've been elected to any damn thing," Carter remarked at the meeting, called to discuss the economic future of this southwest Georgia town.

Bar group wants judgeship changes

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Undeterred by an apparent lack of interest, the Ohio State Bar Association is waging a renewed campaign in the legislature to eliminate election of judges and set up a "merit selection" process.

"Obviously, the elective process has worked well for democracy, but I think we ask too much of our voters when it comes to choosing judges for a state or regional office," said Robert A. Manning, lobbyist for the bar association.

"How could the ordinary person in Athens County possibly know the qualifications of a supreme court candidate from Cleveland or Toledo?" Manning asked.

Legislation scheduled for a hearing today in the Senate Judiciary Committee would establish nonpartisan commissions to choose judicial candidates on the basis of qualifications and without regard to political background.

The commission would submit candidates to the governor for final selection and appointment. Those named would have to eventually go before the electorate unopposed on a general election ballot and receive at least 55 per cent of the vote.

The bar association traces its support of the merit concept back to 1938, when Ohio voters rejected it in a proposed constitutional amendment.

A resolution encompassing the latest proposal, sponsored by Sen. Tony P.

Hall, D-6 Dayton, would also require statewide voter approval, if passed by the Senate and House. Thus far, it has caused barely a ripple of interest at the Statehouse.

Opponents point out that merit selection would take away the right of the voters to pick judges and put it in the hands of nominating commissions and a governor who could be guided by partisan influences, regardless of his party.

Who would make up the commissions?

"We feel it would be better if lawyers were involved in the selection process," Manning said, "but as a practical matter, commissions made up of totally nonlawyers would be acceptable because we believe this is a better method than the present one."

"The commissions would most likely be made up of ordinary people, plus those who have some idea of what a judge does," he added.

Bruce Petrie, chairman of the OSBA modern courts committee, called the state's present nonpartisan judicial election system in which candidates are listed on the ballot without their political party affiliations a "name game."

Most voters have little idea of the candidates' qualifications and simply choose one with the most familiar name, Petrie said.

Senator uproots office staff

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress takes its month-long August recess, Sen. Patrick J. Leahy plans to pack up his Washington office and set up operations in Vermont.

"To me, it is as important for the members of my staff to have the kind of constant contact with Vermonters we serve as I do," said the Democratic senator.

"I intend to close down my Washington office and bring staff members back home to work in Vermont," he added.

Leahy has a Washington staff of 18, most of whom are Vermonters. An aide said all but one or two had volunteered to take part in the experiment in bringing Congress home to its constituents.

An aide said participation was voluntary because each staff member will have to pay his own transportation and living expenses while in Vermont. But anyone who has spent a hot, humid August in Washington probably could be convinced to make whatever sacrifice was necessary to move his job to the cool, green mountains of Vermont.

Sen. Barry Goldwater stood by his desk on the Senate floor and prepared to speak against President Carter's plan to withdraw U.S. troops from South Korea.

He reached for the lapel microphone attached to each senator's desk. The Arizona Republican fidgeted with his microphone for a few moments and then said, "This damn thing hasn't worked since they put it in. I've asked them to fix it 600 times. I'm an electronic expert and I get the bad one."

The issue before the Senate was whether to contribute money to the United Nations University. The junior senator from California, former professor of semantics S. I. Hayakawa, told his senatorial colleagues, "I feel entitled to speak on this subject ... on the basis of my lifelong experience as a professor, and knowing the ambitions, weaknesses and strengths of the professorate."

Hayakawa went on to say he thought the U.N. university was "one vast international academic boondoggle."

"The reason I say this," he added, "and when I speak of professors, I speak of myself among others, is that one of our ambitions as professors, to prove ourselves to be really professors of great distinction, is to have jobs where we do not have to teach; a research institute is an ideal institution in which to get such a position ...

"I have tried to become one, because it is such a nice cushy job. I came to the Senate instead."

Ag center faces financial crisis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The mammoth agricultural research center at Wooster is suffering a budget crunch, part of a nationwide problem its director says may lead to lower yields and higher prices at the market.

"We just aren't getting the level of appropriations we've needed to keep up," said Roy M. Kottman, director of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

After a heyday during and after World War II, agricultural research has gone into a slow decline, according to Clive Donoho Jr., the center's associate director. He says agricultural research is underfunded nationally and this cuts into the basic research on which nuts-and-bolts production depends.

The men blame much of the problem on state and federal support, together composing 83 per cent of the center budget. "Federal support just hasn't kept up with inflation," Kottman said.

State and federal funding have each increased by 50 per cent since 1972, while research costs have escalated between 60 to 75 per cent.

Kottman said it's difficult to reduce on-going research to save money because any research project—for instance, an improved crop variety or a better way to control insects—could result in higher yields and lower operating costs for farmers.

To balance the budget, the center has not replaced retired employees or others who have left during the past 18 months. Of 102 vacancies, 22 are faculty or research jobs and 80 are support jobs.

Chances appear good for the center to get a substantial boost in its state support during the next two years. The center may get $18.9 million in state money, a 20 per cent raise over the previous biennium.

Farm lobbyists shepherding the appropriation through the legislature think the center will do well if it gets the money. Even so, Donoho said half the vacancies could be filled with the funds. About $23 million would be needed to fill all the empty slots.

Musgrave named to land board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The latest appointee to the Board of Unreclaimed Strip Mined Land hopes to put his skills in agronomy to use in efforts to reduce erosion, landslides, flooding and eventually to reclaim abandoned strip mines.

Orlo L. Musgrave, a professor emeritus at Ohio State University, has been named to the nine-member board by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Foster takes over HR lead

Foster blast helps Reds blast Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some pretty famous names came up in the Cincinnati Reds' clubhouse when the subject of George Foster arose in conversation.

"When he gets his arm extended and then whips the bat, he reminds me of Hank Aaron," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

Second baseman Joe Morgan put Foster in a class with Willie Mays and Babe Ruth.

The reason was Foster's 19th home run of the year, a three-run shot off the right-centerfield scoreboard that helped lead the Reds to a 10-5 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night. The teams tangled again tonight in the final game of the three-game Reds' visit here.

Foster said the blast "is an indication that I can hit to all fields with power. That keeps the pitchers honest. It makes sure the pitchers can't pitch me one way."

Those words weren't often heard from Foster last season, according to Morgan.

"George has always belittled himself as a home run hitter, which I thought was one of his downfalls," observed the star second baseman. "Now I think he's gotten to the point where he says he can hit as many as the other guys. That's the big difference in him now as opposed to last year. Last year I think he was still kind of feeling his way."

That's all behind Foster and the Reds. "We have our work cut out for us," he said, noting that second-place Cincinnati trails the Los Angeles Dodgers by 7½ games in the National League's West Division. "We have got to go out and play our best because we have a lot of catching up to do."

They did what they could Tuesday night, picking up a full game on Los Angeles when the Dodgers dropped a 4-3 decision to St. Louis in 10 innings.

"I think he (Foster) is getting to the point of knowing he can hit the ball out whenever he gets ready," continued Morgan. "There's no better feeling in the world than that for a home run hitter."

"I'm sure that guys like Mays and, of course, Babe Ruth, all had that feeling."

GEORGE FOSTER

To be a home run hitter, I think you have to have that."

Foster currently leads the league in home runs.

The Reds started on rookie Philadelphia left-hander Randy Lerch in the first inning, scoring a run on a double by Ken Griffey and Foster's single. Johnny Bench slammed a two-run homer in the third and rookie pitcher Paul Moskau, in his first major league game, hit a solo homer in the fourth.

Moskau's homer boosted it to 4-2, but Ted Sizemore singled in a run and another scored on a sacrifice fly for a 4-4 deadlock after four.

The Reds scored three in the fifth. In the sixth, Griffey, who extended his hitting streak through 12 games, opened with a single. Morgan walked and Foster socked his three-run homer to take over the league lead. That made it 10-4.

Moskau lasted only 4 2-3 innings and was relieved by Pedro Borbon, who finished and earned his fourth win in seven decisions.

Zechman reflects, looks ahead at Rotary

Fred Zechman, head football coach at Miami Trace High School, reflected upon four years at Miami Trace and looked forward to the 1977 campaign Tuesday.

Zechman was the guest speaker at the Washington C.H. Rotary Club meeting.

After four grid seasons at the Fayette County school, Zechman has compiled a 33-6-1 record including a stretch of 23 games in a row that the Panthers have not been beaten. That streak will carry over into the coming year.

Zechman pointed out that being the football coach does not start in the summer and then end after the SCOL Fall Banquet.

"Over the winter," Zechman stated, "we reflect on the season, review game films, evaluate accomplishments, and look at the weaknesses and performances of players."

"We also spend a lot of time formulating our future plans," said the Panther mentor. He said he was not expecting a year like last season when Trace rolled over 10 successive opponents on their way to an SCOL gold football and a fourth ranking in the Associated Press state high school poll.

Zechman said, "It is difficult to pinpoint the reason for the overwhelming success of last year. There was a great need to succeed among the players." He also gave much of the credit to his staff of assistant coaches for their work and experience. "Our system is not simple, it is very complex. Our coaches have to be teachers," he said.

Zechman gave a lot of credit to the seniors on the team. He pointed out that the upperclassmen gave leadership on the team and brought together a team unity. Fan support was another factor for the success, Zechman stated.

The Trace head coach also spoke of the benefits of high school football. Gardner Cobb, a Miami Trace product, will be one of the co-captains for the University of Cincinnati this season and is a three year starter.

According to Zechman, UC head coach Ralph Staub says that Cobb wants to play professional football.

Many other Trace products are at various schools through many types of scholarships: 23 earned on the Panther gridiron. One Panther will receive a four-year scholarship this year worth nearly $5,000 each year.

Zechman attributes most of his success to his year-round program. Football players either compete in other interscholastic sports offered at Miami Trace or they participate in a weight conditioning program.

Zechman then began to look ahead to the 1977 season that begins on August 13 with the first practice.

"Only once every three years," Zechman said, "does a player of big-time college level caliber come along in the SCOL. That player has come along in Art Schlichter."

Zechman stated, "Schlichter is one of the most sought-after players in the nation and one of the top prospects in the United States. What we do as a team next year will determine where he will go and what kind of offers he will receive. He will become even more in demand."

Added pressure will be on the Miami Trace football program as a result of college scouts in the stands most of the season, Zechman added.

He said, "Plans are nearing completion for next year. We lose 11 of the 22 starters including the entire backfield."

"We have the toughest schedule we have played in nearly 10 years with three new opponents: Delaware Hayes, Lancaster and Teays Valley, the new school in the SCOL, will be on the schedule."

"Our six home games are all 'big' games with the SCOL much more balanced and stronger than last year," Zechman added.

Washington C.H., Wilmington, Circleville and Greenfield will all field contenders to Miami Trace's crown according to Zechman.

Cards edge Dodgers in 10

Rogers continues wizardry

By BARRY WILNER

AP Sports Writer

Montreal right-hander Steve Rogers has noticed a change in Expos fans.

"The people are fired up for baseball here now," said Rogers after blanking Houston 6-0 at Olympic Stadium for his third shutout of the season. "We have the new stadium and a good attitude. It's really exciting now. I was glad to give them something to cheer about. It felt good."

It also must feel good to lead the National League in four pitching categories, as Rogers does. The 27-year-old righthander, 9-5 this season after a 7-17 record in 1976, tops the NL with 99 strikeouts, 18 starts, 10 complete games and 136 2-3 innings pitched.

Gary Carter aided Rogers with a 4-for-4 performance at the plate.

"I've never had four hits in a nine-inning game before," said Carter, who has a 7-for-7 streak going.

In other National League contests, Cincinnati belted Philadelphia 10-5. New York defeated Atlanta 5-2, Pittsburgh mauled San Diego 9-2, the Cubs eased past San Francisco 8-2 and St. Louis edged Los Angeles 4-3 in 10 innings.

Reds 10, Phillies 5

Foster's 19th homer of the season, a three-run blast, was the key blow in the Reds' romp.

Foster, who is tied with Boston's George Scott for the major league home run lead, sent a Warren Brusstr pitch over the right-centerfield wall.

Pitcher Paul Moskau, appearing in his first major league game, homered for the Reds but was not involved in the decision. Reliever Pedro Borbon, 4-3, was the winner.

Mets 5, Braves 2, 11 innings
Rookie outfielder Steve Henderson, who came to the Mets in the Tom Seaver deal last week, hit his first major league homer in the 11th inning to give the Mets their victory.

New York tied the game in the ninth inning when Ed Kranepool hit a home run off Andy Messersmith. Willie Montanez' two-run homer in the first accounted for the Braves' runs.

Pirates 9, Padres 2

John Candelaria fired a five-hit and retired 22 consecutive Padres batters during one stretch in the Pirates' victory. Phil Garner drove in three runs, two on a double in the eighth.

Pittsburgh second baseman Rennie Stennett extended his hitting streak to 19 games while Dave Kingman, acquired from the Mets last week, slugged his first homer for San Diego and his 10th of the year.

Cubs 8, Giants 2

The Cubs increased their NL West lead to 6 1-2 games with their triumph over San Francisco. Steve Swisher's two-run double keyed a five-run Chicago second inning and Bill Buckner and Steve Ontiveros added home runs to the Cubs' attack.

The victory was the Cubs 11th in 15 games.

Cards 4, Dodgers 3, 10 innings
Lou Brock's pinch-hit single in the 10th inning brought home Jerry Mumphrey with the Cards' winning run off Charlie Hough, 4-5. The Dodgers had tied the game in the ninth on a two-out homer by Dusty Baker.

St. Louis starter John Denny was carried from the field after injuring a hamstring muscle in the third inning.

Al Hrabosky, who entered the game in the ninth, got credit for his second victory in four decisions.

Stanky to become Ranger boss

Martin benches three; Lucchesi on his way out

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

AP Sports Writer

You can't fire 25 baseball players, so you fire the manager. But you can bench players, and that's what Manager Billy Martin, who was nearly fired Monday, intends to do today in an effort to shake up his slumping New York Yankees.

The Texas Rangers, on the other hand, reportedly were set to fire Manager Frank Lucchesi and replace him with Eddie Stanky.

Meanwhile, the Boston Red Sox roll merrily along, slamming home runs in record fashion and pitching shutouts. Luis Tiant fired Boston's second consecutive two-hitter and Jim Rice and George Scott homered as the Red Sox trounced Baltimore 7-0 Tuesday night for their fifth consecutive triumph and opened a 4½-game lead in the American League East over the Orioles and the Yankees, who were beaten 5-2 by the Detroit Tigers.

Elsewhere, the Minnesota Twins trimmed Texas 9-5 in what may have been Lucchesi's final game as manager, the Chicago White Sox edged the California Angels 3-2, the Kansas City Royals slugged the Seattle Mariners 13-3, the Cleveland Indians blanked the Toronto Blue Jays 4-0 and the Milwaukee Brewers clattered the Oakland A's 12-1.

Mickey Stanley and Tito Fuentes smashed two-run homers while Jim Crawford shackled New York with seven strong relief innings as the Tigers handed the Yankees their fifth consecutive setback. Martin then announced that centerfielder Mickey Rivers, right fielder Reggie Jackson and first baseman Chris Chambliss would sit out tonight's game, giving way, respectively, to Paul Blair, Jim Wynn and Cliff Johnson.

Meanwhile, Minnesota scored five runs on seven hits in the fifth inning in wiping out a 3-1 deficit and beating Texas despite two homers by the losers' John Ellis and one by Toby Harrah. Rod Carew's single tied the score and Butch Wynegar greeted Mike Marshall with a tie-breaking two-run single.

Stanky, who formerly managed the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago White Sox and has been the coach at the University of South Alabama for a number of years, was expected in Minnesota today to sign with the Rangers.

"I guess everybody in the country knows it but me," said Lucchesi. "The thing I can't understand is why no one from the club has been in contact with me."

Area baseball, softball scores

The Craigs team had a good night in Babe Ruth action last night.

The minor league team beat Girtons, 16-7, behind the pitching of Jeff Scott. Ron Valentine, Brad Massie and Ty Anderson all had three hits for the winners.

Tom Shields scored two hits as the major league team shut out Girtons, 8-0. Shields also cracked a two-run homer in the third inning.

The Halliday Elites softball team took fourth place at the Stalnaker Realty invitational Chillicothe last weekend.

Eleven teams competed in the tournament and Becky Tolle led the batting with a .735 average for the tourney. The team hit nine home runs during the two day tourney.

Two managers, five pitchers can't help Legionnaires beat Grove City

WELL, WHAT'S NEXT? Stuart Foster looks like he has the situation in hand as he makes a pitching change in last night's Legion game. Foster took over the reins of the Post 25 team after manager Ron Helmick and starting pitcher Shawn Riley were both ejected from the game. Foster, who made five pitching changes, didn't fare too well in his initial game, losing to Grove City, 16-6.

GROVE CITY, Ohio — Stuart Foster probably made American Legion baseball history last night as Grove City beat Post 25, 16-6, in a wild, sometimes-funny sometimes-ridiculous game.

Helmick was saying and threw him out of the game. Later, he didn't care for what pitcher Shawn Riley said either and told Riley to join Helmick out of the game.

Nevertheless, Foster cleared his bench as 15 players entered the game for Post 25.

Dave Frasher was the winning pitcher for Grove City and he went the distance to record the win. He gave up six runs on eight hits while striking out 15 and walking seven.

Riley took the loss but he was just one of just five pitchers who walked to the mound. He was followed by David Van Dyke, Zack Adams, Foster and Jeff Elliott.

The Washington Legionnaires waited until the fifth inning to get their first three runs and by that time the score was 14-0.

Mark Tubbs led off with a walk and Jeff Estep followed that with a single. Elliott then singled Tubbs home and Scott Johnson doubled in both Estep and Elliott for three runs.

Four Seasons Take Off Without Valli

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures

Once, only the Four Seasons and the Beach Boys of American rock groups could compete successfully against the British pop music invasion led by the Beatles.

Now, the Four Seasons and the Beach Boys still are going strong. But while Brian Wilson has rejoined his brothers who always stayed in the Beach Boys, the Four Seasons, is launching itself without any original member.

Frankie Valli, 43, distinctive falsetto voice lead singer of the Four Seasons and last remaining original member, has been touring with the Four Seasons, now four besides him, all spring to give the new-old group a sendoff. There are dates lined up through the summer, then in September the Four Seasons goes on without him and he devotes full time to a solo career which really began when he started making solo records in 1965.

When the Four Seasons signed with Warner Brothers Records in 1975, Valli says, the plan was "that I would be the featured singer on the first album, then on the second record I would not sing lead all the way through and on the third I would not sing lead at all."

He has planned to separate himself from the Four Seasons for six and a half years, he says. "I listened to scores of people sing. Some I tried even. I put them in the group with the understanding that if it didn't happen, they had to leave. It had to be what I was looking for." What he has as Gerry Polci, John Paiva, Lee Shapiro and Don Ciconne.

None sounds just like Frankie Valli. "There are a couple of real high voices," he says. "They're capable of singing falsetto. But that is not their main voice."

The Four Seasons two LPs so far on their new label are "Who Loves You" and "Heli-con." From the first, there were two hit singles, "Who Loves You" and "December 1963."

Valli signed as a solo artist with Private Stock Records in 1974, and he also has had two hit singles for his new label, "My Eyes Adored You" and "Swearing to God."

But in the beginning there were four Italian fellows from New Jersey, Francis Castelluccio, later Valli, Bob Gaudio, Tommy De Vito and Nick Massi. Producer Bob Crewe and Gaudio wrote the songs and the Four Seasons' second single, "Sherry," became a No. 1 record in America in 1962. "Big Girls Don't Cry" and "Walk Like a Man" made it three No. 1 records straight.

"Dawn (Go Away)" was a hit in 1964 and there were four top 10 singles in a row in 1966. Either "Rag Doll" in 1964 or the recent "December 1963," its first No. 1 record since "Rag Doll," is the group's all-time biggest. Valli says, "We were making hit records in the early 1960s when there were no certifications of sales figures."

The late 1960s were lean years. Valli and Gaudio bought everybody else out, got rights to publishing and masters and the obligation to pay off a debt, and signed with Motown in 1971. They had broken off with Crewe. Gaudio still wrote; all the songs on "Who Loves You" are by Gaudio and Judy Parker. He stopped touring with the group in 1970.

Valli and Gaudio are still partners. Members of the Four Seasons are their employees. However, with signings with Warner Brothers and Private Stock, they gave up ownership of future masters. They do, however, tell both record companies exactly what they want released and when, so the solo and group records won't conflict.

The years with Motown were lean, too. At the parting there, in 1973, Valli bought back the master to his unreleased "My Eyes Adored You." Private Stock released it in 1974. No. 1. Valli, at 5 feet 7, three-and-a-half octave range, and getting an attractive weathered look as he got older, got a personal shock in 1967. He began going deaf, his problem diagnosed as otosclerosis, calcium deposits in the middle ear.

He kept performing and recording, using highly amplified playback.

MERRY MAIDENS 4-H

The Merry Maidens 4-H Club met in the annex of the Madison Mills United Methodist church between 1 and 3 p.m. on June 20, when Kathy Hanawalt and Lori Hollar served punch and cookies for refreshments.

Cynthia Blue, president, called the meeting to order. Coleen Blue led the members in the Pledge of Allegiance and 4-H Pledge. Jodi Huff read from the book "Poems of Inspiration" which was compiled by Albert C. Vince and presented to the club by him when the group visited the Deanview Nursing Home in May. Jodi chose the poem called "The Question of Life" based on Mark 8: 36-37. Angie Autrey gave a safety report on Swimming.

Roll Call was answered by naming the members favorite summertime sport. Minutes were read and approved. Treasurer reported a balance and announced there were four members with outstanding dues. The deadline for all Shopper's Catalog orders is this coming Saturday, June 25th. Cheryl Blue will send the last order in on that date for this year. Prizes will be awarded top salesladies!

The members received their Bald Eagle Badges, membership cards and survey sheets showing their membership to the Bald Eagle Guardian Club. This was a National Project the club voted to support last year. A letter was read from Jack Somers thanking the club for their donation to the 4-H Camp Improvement Fund.

Mrs. Ralph Marcy announced the club's Citizenship Day would be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at German Village in Columbus. Members should be at the church at 9 a.m. and will be returned approximately at 4 p.m. on Tuesday, July 5th. The group voted to take a sack lunch.

Cynthia Blue named the Fair Booth Committee for the year. Pam Hollar is chairman, Lori Hollar, Caren Mowery, Beth Clemans and Carol Bihl will serve on the committee.

The Mother's Tea and Style Show will be Tuesday evening July 12 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the church annex. A health report and safety report are scheduled. Information will be collected on style revue cards by the mothers; they will need to know the cost of the garment and to describe the outfit. A piece of fabric 3"x3" from the garment fabric and scraps of trim are to be attached to the card. Lisa Melvin and Cheryl Blue are in charge of refreshments. Members helping on the refreshments committee are Cindy Depugh, Jodi Huff, Debra Huff and Cynthia Blue.

Youth, 6, struck by car near library

Young pedestrian hurt in mishap

A young Washington C.H. boy was struck by a car when he darted out from between two parked cars on S. North Street in front of the Carnegie Public Library Tuesday.

Chris Sewell, 6, Rt. 6, Washington C.H., suffered a bruised left leg. He was treated at the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room and later released.

The driver of the car, Willie C. Bishop, 57, Cincinnati, told Washington C.H. police officers he was southbound on S. North Street when the boy ran from between parked cars into the path of his car. Bishop stated he was unable to stop in time.

The boy's mother, Roberta Long, and two other witnesses corroborated Bishop's account.

Carl R. Shiltz, 23, 3165 Worthington Road, who was involved in an accident reported in the Record-Herald Tuesday, suffered multiple fractures, according to Fayette County Memorial Hospital records.

The Record-Herald account had stated Shiltz was in a car and received only minor injuries. He was actually driving a motorcycle when he struck a car which was stopping in front of him on Ohio 41-S just north of Elm Street. Shiltz's collar bone and wrist were both fractured in the accident.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported a car, driven by Faye A. Williamson, 19, of 1121 E. Paint St., was sideswiped on U.S. 35 southeast of Old Chillicothe Road Tuesday afternoon. Ms. Williamson told sheriff's deputies she was traveling northwest on U.S. 35 when another car, driven by Gerald J. Knisley, 24, Chillicothe, traveling southeast, came across the center line striking her vehicle. Deputies said they could find no physical evidence to indicate exactly where the incident occurred.

According to another Fayette County Sheriff's Department report, Gerald S. Greathouse, 20, Akron, lost control of his vehicle after the right front tire blew out on I-71 one-tenth of a mile north of mile post No. 66 near Jeffersonville, Tuesday evening.

The car swerved off the left side of the highway, traveled about 264 feet, spun around and came to a stop on the median. No injuries were involved.

Only minor damage occurred in two other traffic accidents Tuesday.

Francis M. Cox, 73, Sabina, struck the side of a parked car, belonging to Bryan K. Lucas, 19, Greenfield, when he attempted to pull his truck out of a space in the Seaway, Inc. parking lot on Clinton Avenue, about 6:45 p.m.

A truck driven by Kevin L. Ellis, 20, Wilmington, backed into a car in the McDonald's Restaurant parking lot, 280 S. Elm St. about 1:14 p.m. Tuesday.

Ellis told Washington C.H. police officers he didn't see the car, driven by Stergios Z. Balahtsis, 16, of 238 Kathryn Court, which was stopped behind his truck.

Local delegate eyes convention

William A. Ernst, 328 N. Hinde St., will be a delegate from the O. E. Hardway Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3782 at the 57th annual VFW convention in Cleveland this weekend.

The convention is expected to draw several thousand members from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

The state VFW organization started in 1922 with 1,666 members. The organization now has 97,579 members and state commander Dean Hinkle has established a goal of 100,000 members before June 30.

Ernst, who serves as adjutant of the local post and a 35-year VFW member, will be accepting awards for post commander Harold Wagner and quartermaster Ted Wilburn. Ernst's wife will accompany him to the convention.

Thundershowers were expected to spread into southwest Ohio ahead of a warm front today and over the rest of the state by Wednesday afternoon.

A high pressure area over eastern Ohio this morning should move southeast to the Virginia coast by tonight. The warm front, which extends from Kansas to western Tennessee, will push slowly north through the lower Ohio Valley during the next couple of days.

Today's highs were to be in the upper 70s and low 80s and about the same tomorrow. Periods of showers are likely for the remainder of the week, with a gradual rise in temperatures reaching the upper 80s and low 90s by Sunday.

Temperatures dropped into the mid 40s under clear skies in northeastern Ohio overnight. But in contrast, skies were cloudy this morning in the southwestern counties and readings were in the low and mid 60s.

Ohio extended outlook, Friday through Sunday: a gradual warming trend with a chance of showers or thundershowers each day. Highs in the low to mid 80s Friday, warming to the upper 80s to low 90s by Sunday. Lows mostly in the 60s.

In 1852 Ohio's legislature passed the first law in the United States for the regulation of working hours of women and children. However, the act then was loosely drawn and of little value.

Porno plan big put-on

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland City Council President George Forbes says he was only kidding when he announced two weeks ago that a committee holding hearings on an obscenity ordinance would hear from strippers and see them perform.

"I deliberately put the town on and I enjoyed it," Forbes said Tuesday as the finance and legislation committees began to hear testimony on the obscenity ordinance.

Forbes, a city Democratic leader, and Republican Mayor Ralph Perk have been sniping at each other recently over the mayor's war on pornography. The mayor's campaign includes the distribution of obscenity questionnaires to every Cleveland household.

The obscenity ordinance, which is sponsored by Perk, would outlaw public display of human sex organs in movies and other media.

At Monday's committee hearing, lawyer Bernard A. Berkman said, "I think this ordinance is absolutely unconstitutional...Obscenity and sex are not synonymous."

Tornadoes reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms continued over various parts of the Great Plains and the middle and upper Mississippi Valley regions and in New England. A flash flood watch is posted in southwest Missouri. Heavy thundershowers required flash flood warnings earlier in several central Missouri counties and until daylight in southeast Kansas. Flooding continued on several rivers in east central Kansas and south central Nebraska.

During the evening, tornadoes were reported 16 miles northwest of Vichy in central Missouri and six miles north of Muleshoe, Texas, which is near the southwest corner of the Texas Panhandle.

A few isolated thundershowers lingered in New Mexico, but most of the showers in western Washington state have ended. Much of the thundershower activity in Florida also has ended.

Skies were clear through the Great Lakes region and the middle Atlantic Coast states. Skies also were generally clear over the central Gulf Coast states and through the intermountain region and the California interior. Low cloudiness and some fog is found along the north Pacific coast and along parts of the California coast.

Early morning temperatures across the nation ranged from 40 at Philipsburg, Pa., to 89 at Needles, Calif.
